

Andrew Ewens – Master - Turners' Company

Andrew Ewens TD BSc(Hons) MSc(Eng) MBA CEng FInstMC MEI

My professional career spans more than 40 years, in engineering, project management and executive leadership roles in the energy and related sectors. Engaged throughout my career in the development of major capital projects I also have led the operation oil and gas production assets. In addition to working in the UK my career has taken me overseas to North and South America, the Middle East, the Asia Pacific region and the CIS. I retired from full time employment in 2024. As well as spending more time with my family, volunteering in my local community and as Master (elected 29 May 2025) of the Worshipful Company of Turners, I maintain my professional links through selected consultancy assignments.

I served 30 years as an officer in the UK Territorial (Reserve) Army, Royal Electrical and Mechanical Engineers. I commanded several sub-units, a REME Reserve Battalion, and on promotion to Colonel was head of the REME in the Reserves and latterly Deputy Commander of a Regional Brigade.

My wife, Geraldine, and I live in the countryside close to Cambridge. We have two sons, and a grandson. My hobbies include rugby (supporter not player!), cycling, and lately I have become a (very) amateur woodturner.
